

Extension Coordinator Dairy NSW, South Coast & Inland – Greg Duncan

Greg Duncan comes with a proven track record in extension across the NSW dairy industry and is well known to many farmers. His knowledge and experience have been attained through university study, eight years of work in the dairy industry, including four and a half years in management as Charles Sturt University's Dairy Herd Manager at Wagga Wagga, and most recently through eight years with Zoetis Australia (formerly Pfizer Animal Health) in various roles across the Australian dairy industry.

Greg's successfully managed a large and diverse territory. He offers a wealth of practical, theoretical and management skills from working autonomously and "hands on" across the animal health industry.

His extension, coordination and training skills are also highly regarded. His strengths are finding common ground and solutions through engagement-driven communications, good analysis, negotiation and influencing skills with a strong emphasis on building relationships. Combined with his qualifications as an InCalf and Countdown Advisor, he will hit the ground running.
